Foreign Students Mix At AHS

(A TOWNSMAN News Feature)
Students at Andover High School should be able to keep close tabs on both Eastern and Western views of the international situation this term for they can collect first hand information from two fellow classmates.

Studying as seniors at Andover are Pauline Howarth, daughter of an English art teacher and Medkham Thammavong whose father is director of the government information service in Vientiane, Laos.

The girls are in the U. S. as American Field Service exchange students and their stay in Andover is sponsored by the local AFS chapter. Each has been assigned to live in a home with a family that has a senior girl of its own to provide companionship for the temporary sister.

Pauline is staying with Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Pike at 29 Central St. and Medkham, with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Klie, 17 Rolling Ridge Rd. The 17-year-old English student looks British, but no more British than the many American teens who now wear their hair in the straight bob that is part of the London look. But she sounds British too, and this it will be difficult for her U. S. friends to emulate. Her accent is crisp and altogether as it should be!

Pauline wants to learn how America lives, what she believes—“what makes her tick, especially politically.” Right now she is persuaded to the Continental view everything in the U. S. is bigger than life and that the pressure is killing. What has given her this notion? American movies and television mostly.

After a quick look at the local school scene, Pauline is prepared to say that she thinks American students “have a more genuine desire to learn, a greater desire to pull their own weight” than her English classmates. She thinks the U. S. teenager seems healthier and more outgoing, and it is her impression that part of the reason for this is the fact that students get up and start the school earlier here than in England. There, she says, when school is out it is the end of the day and there is little you can do but homework. Here, there is time for recreation and social life.

Andover High School seems enormous to Pauline who attends a public school for 400 students in the village of Seend, about 40 miles from Bristol. There is much less pressure on the English student to qualify for college, Pauline reports. Teenagers can quit school at 15 if they like and get a factory, laboratory or secretarial job, for example, for a decent pay. There is no stigma attached. Another difference: homework is more concentrated in England where the student carries just three subjects at a time.

Future Teacher

Medkham Thammavong, also 17, wants to be an elementary school teacher in her homeland when she has completed her education.

Five Students Study Chinese

Five Andover High School students have been selected to attend a beginning course in Chinese at Phillips Andover Academy. The class will meet during the afternoon hours with an instructor from Wellesley College.

Principal Philip F. Wormwood reports that the girls enrolled are Virginia Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Campbell, 5 Thresher Rd.; Judith James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay James of 21 Shipman Rd.; Barbara Jameson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Jameson, 61 Greenwood Rd.; Catherine Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Palmer, 100 High Plain Rd.; and Linda Sagaser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sagaser, 56 Chestnut St.

Town Warrants Part Of This Issue

Both the Warrant and the Supplemental Warrant for the Special Town Meeting which is to be held Oct. 3 are printed in detail on page 6 of this issue of the TOWNSMAN. A story discussing latest Warrant developments starts on this page.

Charter Trustees Elected

Phillips Academy Headmaster John M. Kemper has announced the election of Milton Steinbach and John H. Castle Jr. as charter members of Andover's board of trustees.

Mr. Steinbach of New York City and Rye, N. Y. is a partner with the investment banking firm of Wertheim and Co. and a member of the Andover class of 1920. For the past three years he has served as a member of the financial advisory committee to the Andover board of trustees and prior to that as a member of the steering committee for the Andover program capital campaign which raised $6,750,000 between 1959-61.

He is a trustee of Mount Sinai Hospital and president of Mount Sinai School of Medicine.

The new Andover trustee is also a director of Armour & Co., Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corp., Barber Oil Corp., Philip Carey Manufacturing Co., Deltec Corp. Ltd., Gestetner Duplicator Corp.,

The Selectmen were hastily summoned Tuesday for approval of a second warrant for the Oct. 3 Special Town Meeting, one that asks voters to permit construction of a central fire station on North Main Street instead of on Stevens Street as voted last March.

With this decision the board reversed its position of less than a week ago and prepared to recommend acquisition of a portion of the old Tyer Rubber Co. warehouse property adjacent to Friendly's Restaurant. Price was not mentioned, but the board is reportedly ready to pay as much as $150,000 for a segment of the land that will include 140 feet of Main Street frontage.

This location was suggested sometime ago by Selectman Sidney P. White who has openly opposed acquisition of the Stevens Street property since his election in March. Last week White invited fellow board members, the press and presidents of the Andover League of Women Voters and Andover Taxpayers Assn. to a dinner meeting at Andover Inn for discussion of the Tyer Rubber property by its owner, Contractor C. Lincoln Giles.

Giles told town officials then that he is willing to sell the whole Tyer Rubber parcel for what he “has in it,” and he set a price of $225,000. He further agreed that he is willing to sell off enough land for construction of a fire station or a combined fire-police station and he suggested two possibilities: one would cost the town $195,000 and the other, $180,000.

Too Costly

Shortly after the dinner presentation, the majority of the Selectmen rejected Giles' proposals as too costly and later the same evening the Finance Committee concurred. Chairman

Second Conference Fails To Bring River Compromise

Officials from four Greater Lawrence communities appear to have exhausted the possibilities for compromise on the issue of representation in their planning for a Merrimack River pollution abatement district.

They have, however, decided not to abandon the idea of a co-operative venture until they can determine what a new State pollution control law has to say on the subject of district representation. The law may dictate a representation formula and consequently provide the basis for a final decision on the district proposal.

Municipal officials from Andover, Lawrence, North Andover and Methuen met for the second time Monday to debate the board representation issue. A meeting a month ago at Andover Country Club brought no accord. A third session is to be held in Andover in approximately a month.

Representation is the final major stumbling block to creation of a pollution control district that would build and operate a $21 million filtration plant to handle sewage that is now dumped, untreated, into the Merrimack. There has been agreement on virtually every other important aspect of proposed legislation, although Andover has not fully accepted the formula for apportioning of capital expenditures. As now outlined, Andover would foot the bill for $2 million of the construction cost.

Up to now Andover, North Andover and Methuen have said that they are not interested in anything but one-for-one board representation. All have said, in effect, that they fear any formula which would give the City of Lawrence greater control than that exercised individually by the balance of the combine.

Lawrence Mayor Daniel P. Kiley Jr. made it clear this week, however, that both he and his Council continue to oppose a one-for-one board. He said the city would agree to representation on the basis of population, metered usage or a proportion of the operating costs, but not on the basis of 1-1-1-1. He was so emphatic in statement of his position early in the evening Monday that a North Andover selectman moved to adjournment.

Only Three Things Could Make The Andover Co-op A Friendlier Place to Shop . . .

All you'd need would be sawdust, a potbellied stove and a pickle barrel and you'd have a near replica of that grand institution, the General Store. Yes, the Andover CO-OP is that friendly a place. It's designed to be that way; because it's a non-profit venture of, by and for the Andover community. So when you shop CO-OP you'll see plenty of familiar faces, your neighbors' faces. And when you deal with Glen Walker, our Meat Department Manager or John Macker, our Produce Department Manager, or anyone here for that matter, you'll be hard put to find friendlier, more helpful folks. And the CO-OP's fine foods at competitive prices, and the up-to-two-weeks' grocery money rebate returned you at year's end, also contribute to that friendly feeling. Our last name, "CO-OP", stands for "cooperative". Think about it. And Shop CO-OP.

Evening Study Program Begins Classes Oct. 3

The Andover Evening Study Program is now accepting registrations for its thirtieth annual session, which will begin the week of Oct. 3.

The 40 courses offered (28 of them entirely new) have already attracted a large registration. Applicants are being urged to enroll as soon as possible since many of the courses are limited in size. Catalogues containing course descriptions and enrollment blanks may be obtained at the public libraries of Lawrence and most of the cities and towns of the Merrimack Valley. They may also be obtained by writing or phoning the Andover Evening Study Program, Phillips Academy.

One of the most unusual features of the program is the fact that the faculty, numbering more than 55 from Phillips Academy and various schools and colleges in the area, teaches without pay as a community service. This means that tuition costs are nominal (a $2 registration fee and $2 for most courses). Any surplus over operating costs is donated to worthy causes.

Most courses meet one or two hours an evening for seven or eight weeks in October and November. An exception is the Film Program which is offered during January and February.

All of the classroom, lecture, laboratory, music, art, and gymnasium facilities of Phillips Academy are placed at the disposal of the program without charge. Thus some of the finest educational facilities in the world are used for the adult evening students of the Merrimack Valley.

Many different types of courses are being offered this year. One for example, is entitled Six Screenplays of Ingmar Bergman and features six movies of the noted Swedish cinema writer and director. Always popular course is the Andover Film Program, through which are shown seven popular films of years gone by.

In addition, the program is offering four courses in literature (20th Century Literature, Contemporary French Fiction, An Introduction to Joyce, and Six Ladies of American Fiction), two in the theater (Drama Workshop and Contemporary Theater), three in foreign languages (Spanish Conversation, German for Beginners, and Modern Greek for the Tourist); seven under the general heading of sports, hobbies, and special interests (Ballet, Physical Fitness for men, physical fitness for women, scuba and skin diving, seamanship and motorboat handling, people and places - a travelogue - and American antiques).

Four art courses (Life Drawing, Photography for Models, Flower Arrangement, and Zami, Pop, Wow!); three courses in world affairs (A Look at Latin America, the Nation and the World, and China), two courses in science (Modern Atomic Theory and the Physics of Light and Sound); two courses in psychology (The Adolescent and Interpersonal Relations); two courses in music (Harmony and Bell Ringing); one course in theology (Contemporary Theology); and three courses designed mainly for teachers (The Art of Teaching Writing, The Teaching of Modern Languages, and Art and the Curriculum).

Wendy Noyes of 16 Beech Circle is among 80 student leaders who arrived on the Nason College campus to participate in the third annual Leadership Conference.

AHS Students, Faculty Endorse Booster Drive

The students and faculty at Andover High School, led by Principal Philip F. Wormwood and Athletic Director Donald D. Dunn, have enthusiastically endorsed the membership drive of the Andover Boosters Club. The house-to-house canvass begins Friday.

The Boosters contributed approximately $3600 to the high school during the last school year. A total of $1000 was given in scholarships, $1500 for a track championship banquet and awards, $200 for championship awards to the girls' gym team and nearly $700 for winter and spring track awards in addition to funds made available for the Andover Invitational Track Meet.

Despite the fact that last year was a year of Championship teams at Andover High, school people report that the Boosters never wavered in their resolve to recognize all championship efforts. They add that this is the way it has been since 1948 when a group of interested Andover men recognized the need for properly equipping the Andover High School football squad.

Between Sept. 23 and 29, high school students will call at Andover homes to solicit Booster memberships.

In a resolution issued this week, the Board of Selectmen has proclaimed the period of the drive as Andover Boosters Club Week and commended the organization for its "furthering of the cause of sportsmanship, safety, scholarship and convenience to students, players and spectators. . ."

Board Studies Subdivisions

The Planning Board held hearings Monday on two subdivisions. Both were taken under advisement.

Discussed was a proposed two-lot subdivision by Bakers Meadow Trust on Chester Street.

Also heard were the plans of 133 Realty Trust for a 61-lot subdivision off Lowell St. and Haggerty Rd.

The board approved preliminary plans for a 50-lot subdivision to be constructed by Graymoor Trust off Gray Rd. The developer will run an eight inch water line into the area which will be in keeping with the town's master plan for water service.

At a meeting last week the boarders approved a subdivision for Bakers Meadows Trust which will involve the construction of 25 houses off Argilla Rd. A 15 lot subdivision was also approved. It will be developed by Sam DeSalvo off Upland Rd. on a street to be called Ivanhoe Ln.

Snake Venom Researcher Speaks To AHS Students

A Venezuelan researcher teamed up with his Andover brother last week to present a filmed report on a Caracas snake farm.

Dr. Geunther Berthold showed a film and slides on his farm, research laboratories and the procedures he uses for developing an anti-venom serum. Interpreting for the Spanish speaking scientist was his brother Wolf Berthold of 179 Shawsheen Rd.

Pictures of the venomous snakes and their farm living quarters were shown as well as the techniques used in extracting the venom. In preparing the anti-venom, Dr.
Berthold injects small doses of the pure snake venom into horses.

This produces anti-bodies which can be extracted from the blood of the horse to prepare a treatment for human patients.

It is estimated that 30,000 lives have been saved by Dr. Berthold's process. Snake bite is common in Venezuela.

SECOND CONFERENCE

Manager Richard Bowen persuaded officials to remain, however, to discuss the possible impact of new State legislation which was passed at the last session of the General Court to provide partial financing for pollution control projects.

Bowen said that the question of representation may prove "academic." He pointed out, for example, that the State measure calls for creation of pollution district advisory councils composed of representatives from cooperating communities. For Greater Lawrence such a council would apparently include six representatives from Lawrence, five from Methuen, four from Andover and three from North Andover.

Bowen said the law also calls for man control commissions - one to be selected by the advisory council, one by the Waterways Division and one by the Department of Natural Resources.

Sniping

Mayor Kiley took advantage of general opportunities Monday to snipe at Manager Bowen, referring to the Andover official's refusal to attend a dinner conference session held at Andover Country Club some weeks ago at the mayor's invitation.

At that time Bowen, who had been attending regular meetings of a four-community pollution control committee for some months, said he was not interested in going to the Kiley meeting unless he knew in advance that something new was to be proposed. He made the offhand remark that he was not interested in the "cocktails" and that he could have dinner at home.

It was later reported that the manager "boycotted" the meeting because a social hour was to precede the discussion and the conference has stuck.

Because of this Kiley snapped off a comment about Bowen's missing the last meeting when a discussion arose about whether or not Federal legislation will permit pollution-aid to communities interested in building control facilities of their own.

Kiley intimated that Andover would not be able to get such aid if she tried to go it alone. Bowen said he knew of no such restrictions, whereupon Mayor Kiley pointed out that the matter has been under discussion for two years and, said he, "I would think you would have had time to read the Federal legislation."

Bowen replied that the Federal legislation to which he referred has not yet cleared Congress, that it has been passed by the Senate but not been approved by the House.

Earlier Federal legislation did not make provision for aid in any substantial amounts, he added.

Attending Monday's meeting from Andover were Bowen, and Selectmen William Stewart (chairman), Roger Collins, Philip Allen and Sidney P. White.

Scanlon is one of two civilians at the Air Force electronic systems division chosen for study this year.

On completion of his studies, he will receive a master's degree in industrial engineering and management. Scanlon already holds a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from Merrimack College and a master's degree in the same field from Northeastern University.

At the electronic systems division here, at Hanscom Field, Bedford, he is chief of the engineering division for the Apollo/Ranger instrumented aircraft program.

Scanlon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy J. Scanlon, live at 75 Summer St.

It's odd, but true, that the only time some folks get a move on is when they're stuck.

Time For Evaluation

More than 63% of the Registered voters of Andover displayed a remarkable faith in the wisdom of the minority last week.

They ignored the September 13 primary election and left decisions about the fate of their State and County government to a piddling percentage of the qualified voters.

The statistics stand as mute testimony to their indifference:

Precincts	1	2	3	4	5	6
1997	1293	1824	2166	833	2240
Voting	775	481	697	821	248	781

Granted, in some instances, there was little about the quality of the candidates to inspire avid support. But this is a situation from which we cannot divorce ourselves. If the major political parties are candidate poor, it is our fault. If the best men we can produce are not sought and encouraged to run for office, it is our fault. If those good men who do come forward fail in their bid for election, it is our fault. And if the honorable men who succeed in being elected are shortly disillusioned and discouraged by the indifference of the public to their efforts to improve the quality of government, this too is our fault.

The die for November is cast. It is too late for a more perfect Primary.

But this is all the more reason that each citizen should begin now a process of careful evaluation of the record of each candidate. Even in those instances where the choice is limited, we must be prepared to know which is the lesser of the evils.

Six Opportunities

Town Counsel ruled last week that the 1957 School Committee, having had no directive from the voters, was within its rights to abandon the name "Punchard" in labeling the then newly constructed high school as "Andover High School."

It is to be hoped that this ruling will not prompt preparation of a private Town Meeting article to recind the Committee's action.

The name Andover High School carries with it no reference to the benefactor who was responsible for the first free public school established in Andover, and this is unfortunate. At the same time, one must agree with our educators that the present name is an infinitely more meaningful identification, particularly for students who represent the school at scholastic and athletic competitions away from Andover and for graduates who enroll at far-flung colleges.

Benjamin H. Punchard could not have foreseen the educational system that would one day be required to support his vision of a free education for Andover youngsters. Had he been able to anticipate the future, he most certainly would have been the first to realize that the income from his bequest could not finance such an operation. And he might have drawn his will differently.

When he provided for alternate use of the income from the school bequest, Mr. Punchard was obviously considering the possibility that the idea of a free school might be abandoned altogether. It is doubtful that he would be in the least concerned to learn that the some $3000 which his trust contributes to the school department annually is used to buy supplies for a school that no longer bears his name.

It is logical that Andover High School should be Andover High School. There is no reason, however, why the name "Punchard" cannot be preserved in connection with the school system.

The town will soon have two junior high schools, one of which it will be necessary to name. And there are plans for five additional elementary schools within the foreseeable future.

This provides the School Committee with six opportunities to keep the memory of Benjamin Punchard's interest in education alive . . . and to comply with the technicalities of his will.

Memorial Hall Library

Checkhov Plays Great Books Topic

The current season of discussions based on Great Books of the Western World opens on Tuesday evening, Oct. 4, at 7:30 p.m. The scene will be Memorial Hall Library on Elm Square.

It will be the 15th season for the group which has been led since the beginning by Robert Rockwell and Miss Helen Stearns. Registration and purchase of the paperback series of books on which discussions will be based, indicate a high amount of interest for this year.

The topic for the initial meeting will be two plays, THE THREE SISTERS and THE CHERRY ORCHARD by Anton Chekhov. Other topics this year will be based on the thinking and writing of Henry James, Henry Adams, Plato, Vergil, Mollere and Conrad.

There is still time to become a member of the discussion group which is the only adult Great Books group in Greater Lawrence.

Requirement for membership is simple - a desire to read in advance of the meetings and to join with one's neighbors for stimulating consideration of the ideas which occur to you as a result of the reading program. Meetings are scheduled for alternate Tuesdays during the fall with a holiday break at Christmas time. Thereafter the meetings continue until summer.

For additional information, prospective members may call Memorial Hall Library.

Research Laboratory

Three classes from Andover Junior High School gathered books, magazines and pamphlets for research they will be doing for the next eight weeks under the direction of Mrs. Henry DeCesar. The classes were divided into 17 teams to visit the library on Monday, Thursday and Friday, September 19, 22, and 23. On topics which they chose themselves, the ninth grade students took hundreds of items from the collection to study and use as a basis for team reports.

Gift Books Added

Gifts last month which reflect the life long hobbies and expert knowledge of their donors include an art collection and a railroad collection. Mrs. Dorothy Sanborn, 8 High St., Andover has earned public gratitude for giving her art histories and gallery guides to the art collection at Memorial Hall Library. Included are those from The National Gallery (London) and half a dozen other world known galleries here and abroad. She also donated a set of Prang Examples of Historic Ornament.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Curtis, 15 Cedar Rd., have made several contributions during the summer and last month gave their comprehensive collection on railroading and the history of railroads to the library. Featured are the definite books on famous engines and trains and railroad lore by Lucius Beebe, some of which are now out of print.

The Children's Room was pleased to accept a set of the well-known Landmark books for the junior high age from the Glen E. Guy family who recently moved from Kirkland Drive to New York State.

What Our Readers Say

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN

It was a crisp Autumn day in 1968. The new Town Hall at Andover Square on the former Barnard Elms site had just been dedicated. Mr. John Q. Public who resides on the west side of Main Street just above Locke Street started to walk to the Town Hall to pay his taxes.

Now, Mr. Public is an elderly man and must walk slowly.

He proceeded north towards Central Street intending to cross Central Street to the Library side then over Main Street to High Street.

When he reached Central Street the traffic light was red, so he had to wait. On the next green light he started to cross, but by the time he reached the island the light turned red and he had to wait for another green light. After crossing Central Street, he found a red light on Main Street but on the next green light he completed his journey.

After having attended to his business, he thought he would return another way and would cross High Street to Elm and then to Main Street. (A light had been installed at Elm and High Streets.)

The light was red so he waited to cross High. He did make the green light on Elm Street, but still had to cross Main Street in order to walk home. He crossed Main Street on the next green light, but had to dodge the cars coming out of Central Street and from Elm Street on the right.

Upon arriving home, somewhat unnerved he sat down to rest. He remarked to Mrs. Public:

"I don't see why the Town Hall was not built on the Shaw property, or better still at the site of the Musgrove Building thus really improving the appearance of Andover Square and better serving the convenience of the public. Why was it built on an island surrounded by traffic?"

their headpieces were of pink roses. Each attendant carried one long-stemmed pink rose.

Miss Deborah Anderson of Andover, cousin of the bride, was a junior bridesmaid.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Richards wore a light blue Bavarian lace sheath with matching hat. The bridegroom's mother chose an aqua crepe dress with a floral hat.

TONIGHT, OCT. 6

"Thursday Night Theatre" is a unique experience in the theatrical world.

It is an attempt to begin on a modest, uncultured scale a plan that will establish the first year round playhouse to be built in a suburban New England area.

Why this modest beginning: to build momentum, to walk before running so as not to become financially bankrupt and kill the dream before it can start (as has happened to so many others).

Why unique: because we offer a theatre supermarket - ample free parking, lounge and restaurant facilities, comfortable seating, smoking and the enjoyment of refreshments during the show.

Our prices are supermarket type too. $2.00 per person ($1.50 for groups of six or more or for individual subscription to three plays).

Your support will enable us to strengthen our base of dignity and stability from which we will expand our production schedule.

Examine our repertory and make your reservations - NOW. (Organizations are invited to buy "A Night at the Theatre" - It's an ideal way to raise funds).

Prize Film To Be Shown

The prize winning film "Parable" will be shown at Free Church Sunday during the regular morning service as a substitution for the sermon.

The 22 minute film, which depicts the mission of Jesus in parable form, was shown at the Protestant Pavilion during the New York World's Fair.

It tells the story of a clown who is kind to overburdened members of a traveling company. The brutal and cynical people with whom he comes in contact finally kill him and his suffering is represented as similar to that of Jesus.

A discussion will be held following the film, led by Rev. J. Allyn Bradford.

CAPE CHARLES

Our illustration tells the Cape Charles Collection story more effectively than words. Handsome, gracious, conservative. 18th Century Colonial design inspired by furniture used in old Eastern Shore homes. Masterpieces of unsurpassed magnificence. In native Maple or Cherry woods, finished in a wear resistant, soft deep brown finish, subtly distressed, and hand rubbed to a lustrous glow. Pith areas or dark streaks often appear due to minerals the trees absorbed from the earth, giving the wood unique beauty and character only nature can create.

League's Membership Tea Open To Andover Women

The annual membership tea of the League of Women Voters of Andover will be held at Cooley House, Phillips Academy, on Tuesday, Sept. 27 between 2 and 4 p.m.

New and prospective members will have an opportunity to meet the board and to discuss projects which the League will undertake in the coming year.

The League is a non-partisan organization which seeks to promote the informed participation of citizens in government. Its membership is open to all.

Though the organization takes an active part in pre-election activities it does not campaign for or endorse specific candidates or political parties. The Voters Service committee instead sponsors candidates' nights, distributes information about candidates and works to register all eligible voters.

The League functions to influence public opinion, however on certain issues which have been studied by the membership. In such instances the organization will vote to support or oppose political action.

During the coming year the League will be working on or studying such diverse subjects as referenda questions, local education, the structure of Massachusetts government, Mainland China, and preservation of open space in Andover. All who feel they might be interested in the activities of the League of Women Voters are invited to attend the membership tea. Baby sitting will be provided at the Free Church.

ANDOVER

Positively intriguing...but only if you adore the age old charm of the Early American. The house is small - only 3 bedrooms - but the living room is spacious, the parlor makes a grand playroom for the two kids, the kitchen-dining area is more than adequate. There are 1½ baths. Workshop and separate garage. Best of all, price is now reduced to $19,900.

Six Instruct Bible Courses For Churches

A staff of six instructors has been assembled for the Weekday School of Biblical Studies for the current academic year.

Director Walter E. Aufrecht reports these appointments:

7th Grade: Mrs. Kenneth Minard, who graduated from Smith College and has also studied at Harvard, Boston University, Cambridge and Oxford. A teacher for eight years, Mrs. Minard was named the school's teacher of the year last year.

Mrs. John Murray, a graduate of Northfield School, has been active in church schools for many years. An active leader in junior high summer conferences, Mrs. Murray is beginning her ninth year with the Weekday School.

Mrs. J. Edison Pike is a graduate of Garland College and has taken further study at Boston University. Her wide experience as a teacher includes over ten years work in church schools. This is Mrs. Pike's fourth year with the Weekday School.

8th Grade: Rev. Hartland H. Gifford, a graduate of Upsala College who received his BD from Augustana Seminary. He served parishes in Detroit and Duquesne, Pa., before coming to Andover as the pastor of Faith Lutheran Church in 1962. The author of many articles and reviews, Mr. Gifford worked in commercial radio for six years as an announcer, newscaster and commentator before entering the ministry. This is his fourth year with the Weekday School.

Also on the staff is Rev. Paul T. Keyes, a graduate of Holy Cross College and St. John's Seminary of Boston. Father Keyes, curate of St. Robert Bellarmine Roman Catholic Church in West Andover is beginning his first year in the Weekday School.

9th Grade: Rev. Robert E. Bossdorf, pastor of Ballardvale United Church. Mr. Bossdorf has received both his BA and BD degrees from Drew University and comes from Scotch Plains, N. J., where he was minister to youth at the First Methodist Church. This is his third year with Weekday School.

Museum Tour Opens Season

The North Andover-Andover Parents League will meet Oct. 18 at the North Andover Historical Museum. A guided tour of the Merrimack Valley Textile Museum will highlight the meeting.

In keeping with the basic principle of the Parents League, three general meetings are planned to explore and re-educate members to the cultural, social and educational opportunities offered in our communities. These meetings will be held in local museums, galleries and educational institutions. Parent discussion groups, key-noted by local professionals in the field of child growth and guidance, are also planned.

Membership is open to residents of Andover and North Andover or families whose children attend school (5th grade and up) in either of these communities. Anyone interested in joining the Parents

In A Word . . .

PAYING TOO MUCH?

Some people believe that the medicines they use to restore or to maintain good health cost too much.

However, the President's Council of Economic Advisers, in its 1965 Annual Report, emphasized that the cost of prescription medicines and other drugs has steadily declined over the past five years, while costs of all other consumer items have increased.

Today's modern medicines and medical care are truly worth the investment you make in good health for you and your loved ones.

FIRE BARN

Robert Henderson did say, however, that he regarded the North Main Street site as a better location for the fire station.

By Monday, however, the situation was changing. The selectmen met for lunch, without Manager Richard Bowen, and afterward reports of a Supplemental Warrant began to circulate.

Contractor Giles confirmed Tuesday that he told the board Monday he was willing to accept $150,000 for a section of his property that would include 140 feet of the 192 feet frontage on Main Street. It would be located at the corner of Main and Lewis Streets and run in the rear to adjoin land that is part of the town's department of public works complex, a distance of some 280 feet.

Still to be negotiated, apparently is the question of demolition of the shell of the old brick warehouse. Giles said his price does not include demolition which he estimates would cost an estimated $10,000. In other words, the town would have to invest a total of $160,000 to acquire and clear the property. At least one Selectman is under the impression, however, that Giles is prepared to include the demolition as part of his $150,000 offer.

At the dinner conference last week, Contractor Giles told the Board that he did not consider any proposal that called for destruction of the brick warehouse practical and he restated his opinion that the location could not make money sense unless the building shell was utilized, either for a town hall-police station-fire station complex or for a fire and police station. He said Tuesday that he is still of this opinion.

Asked why he would be willing to split his holdings in a valuable industrial zone and drop his plans for development of an apartment building in the warehouse, Mr. Giles said that he has "found greener pastures elsewhere." He explained that he has found it easier to do business in other than his home town.

He was unable to explain what his plans would be for use of the 52 foot frontage he expects to retain on Main Street. As possibilities he mentioned an access to the rear of the property, a small commercial establishment or an expansion of the Friendly parking area.

Chairman William Stewart released a statement Wednesday to explain the board's move for a revote of fire station funds.

In the statement Stewart said: "It is the considered judgment of the Board of Selectmen that there are fewer disadvantages to the development of this site than would be the case on Stevens Street. Travel on Harding Street would not be necessary . . . and the North Main Street hill, particularly in the winter time, would not present the problems that would attach themselves to the Stevens Street site. . . . The price of $150,000 for a large part of this property, though not small, nevertheless, in the judgment of the Board of Selectmen, represents a sound investment in the future of the Town."

Bowen Explains Station Remarks

Selectman Sidney P. White told Manager Richard Bowen last week that if Andover firefighters were polled for their opinion, the results would show that they are opposed to construction of a central fire station at the corner of Main and Stevens Streets.

Bowen replied: "I don't care what they think. But I do care what the people think."

This week he explained his report in a letter to Board Chairman William Stewart, commenting that his remark had apparently been "misinterpreted" to the derogation of his office as well as that of the Fire Department.

Stating that he had had long conferences with the fire chief in the consideration of station locations, Bowen said, . . . "It has been and it always will be my policy to be concerned primarily with the informed and professional opinions of department heads." He added, "It has not been nor will it be my practice to conduct polls of the members of any given department on a particular project . . . although it would appear that this has been done by a member of the Board of Selectmen. . . ."

The statement continued: "I respect fully and completely the dedication and competence of members of the Fire Department in protecting the lives and property of the citizens of the Town of Andover. Our department is a superior one and worthy of my respect. . . ."

FOREIGN STUDENTS

Career opportunities for women are still quite limited in her country, but she says women with college degrees can find jobs with the government or in education.

Asked about the political turmoil in her country, the soft spoken brunette replies that one is very conscious of the infiltration of Communists in Laos. There are student parades and perpetual reports of Communist incidents. And how do the people of Laos feel about America? Most, she believes, feel that the United States is really interested in their country and really helping with solutions to their problems. But there are many people who feel more akin to France and England than the U. S.

The Laotian school system is organized quite differently than that of this country, Medkham says. The public school student goes to secondary school through a 13th year, by which time he is 20 to 21 years old. With this background he is quite fluent in French and has had a good grounding in English as well.

On hand at AHS to shed still another point of view on world affairs is Lissa Vogt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Johnson Vogt, 50 Wildwood Rd. Lissa spent the summer in Germany as an AFS student, living in one rural and one metropolitan community during the two months.

The head of the household in her Gutersloh was employed by a big-city industry and in Mahlerlen the Andover teenager lived with a dairy farmer and his family. (As a sideline, the farmer ran his own schnapps distillery!)

The high school senior reports that the Germans she had an opportunity to question are "afraid of the idea of another super-nation and quick to say that they would not like to be as big as the United States nor to have her international responsibilities."

Lissa says she saw absolutely nothing to indicate that any resurgence of Nazism is likely in Germany and she said she was told repeatedly that most Germans really did not know about the horrors being perpetrated by the Nazi government during World War II. And is she convinced that they did not know? She is almost certain, but not quite.

So far as Lissa was able to learn, realistic Germans do not expect to see their country reunited. They talk about it, she reports, but without any real conviction. "I think they feel they have grown too far apart as separate countries to ever be reunited," she explains.

Lissa found Germans quite "Americanized," their life quite commercialized and few of them "typically German."
